The first mention of Lithuania dates back to the 11th century. The town of Klaipeda (Memel) in Lithuania was founded in 1252.

Klaipeda is a unique Lithuanian city by virtue of its colorful and turbulent history. Also, the Old Town’s architectural style is similar to many western European cities with which it had close links.

The history of the city dates back to the time when the Livonian Order built a castle called Memelburg. A town grew around the castle close to where the waters of the Curonian Lagoon flow into the Baltic Sea.

Klaipeda is Lithuania’s only gateway to the sea, and the most northerly ice-free port on the eastern coast of the Baltic Sea. The seaport is popular with investors and foreign partners because of its attractive and competitive conditions to develop industry and promote small and medium businesses.

It is said that Klaipeda will become increasingly important, because of its direct links with other European and worldwide ports and it is a sea transport center where regular shipping lines and fast modern motorway routes merge together.

Tourism is becoming increasingly important to Klaipėda and its hinterland; major investments are being made to promote it. Being the only Lithuanian port on the Baltic Sea, Klaipeda is very proud of opening a new cruise ship terminal in the heart of the city in 2003, able to handle a max. draft of 8.5 m. and a max. cruise ship length of 250 m.

Klaipėda is famous for its fine maritime traditions, for example since 1934 on the last weekend of July the Sea Festival has been held in the town. The Kopgalis Fort, built in the 19th century, houses the Maritime Museum which has the largest display on maritime nature and the history of navigation. Large audiences come to the Aquarium and Dolphinarium to see shows featuring trained dolphins and Californian sea lions. Also of great interest is the Museum of Clocks and Watches, which has a wide range of exhibits with objects dating back to the 16th century. On weekends at noon visitors can hear a concert of carillon music coming from the tower of the old post-office building. The Blacksmith’s Museum houses a display of beautiful metal crosses and fences from the end of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th centuries. Furthermore, many original sculptures created by some of the best sculptors in the country can be seen in the Klaipėda Park of Contemporary Sculpture.

Klaipėda is the town suitable for rest, recreation, and entertainment. Additionally, in Klaipėda and along the entire coast of the Lithuanian Baltic Sea there are excellent white sandy beaches.
Mayors from member cities of Shiraz, Tainan, and Cologne visited Kyoto City Hall, and met with various representatives including Mayor Kadokawa and City Assembly Chairperson Terada for informal talks where they agreed to deepen the friendships between their cities through activities within the League of Historical Cities.

Shiraz joined the League in 2014, and is one of five member cities from Iran to join the LHC. Kyoto is experiencing a steady annual increase in the number of tourists from the Middle East and the city is currently advancing policies towards creating a friendly and inviting environment for Muslim tourists.

In 2012, Tainan joined the LHC. In April of 2016, Tainan and other cities in Chinese Taipei quickly declared programs to support areas affected by the Kumamoto Earthquake.* This year, Tainan City restored their Japanese garden located in a city park based on advice from a Kyoto gardener. Also, vigorous exchanges have been taking place between the Tainan City Council and the Kyoto City Assembly.

Cologne is a founding member of the League and has been a member since 1994. Cologne is also one of Kyoto’s sister cities and this year marks their 54th anniversary. While Mayor Reker was in Kyoto, she visited the World Heritage Site Nijo-jo Castle, Murin-an famous for their Japanese garden, Vila Kamogawa a German cultural organization, and an electric automobile manufacturer start-up. She confirmed ties between Cologne and Kyoto along with advancing exchanges in the areas of the environment along with culture and arts.

Kyoto City hopes to welcome all members of the LHC from around the world.

* A series of major earthquakes with epicenters in Kumamoto Prefecture that inflicted major damage to a wide area of the island of Kyushu, Japan.
The Star Festival in Kyoto, called Kyo no Tanabata, was held over the period of August 2-16, 2017 at various locations within Kyoto City; at the entrance of World Heritage Site Nijo-jo Castle lanterns were installed displaying mayors’ messages of peace from LHC member cities.

Tanabata or Star Festivals are held once a year with wishes and prayers offered to the summer sky, and these wishes are written on a long thin strip of paper like Japanese poetry. It is said that wishes made during this time come true.

The League of Historical Cities was established based on the desire to make contributions to the attainment of world peace which is a wish of all people for the future of humanity, as well as bringing together historical cities based on shared ties and to promote common exchanges.

With this in mind, for the “We Wish for World Peace” project the 40 messages received from LHC member city mayors were displayed on paper lanterns together with a photograph of each mayor.

Many people visited Nijo-jo Castle and viewed this beautiful display of 4 large lanterns containing messages from mayors located around the world while they were exhibited at the castle entrance, a place in which Kyoto considers a symbol of peace as the castle has never been a place of war during the structures history.

Kyoto City will continue to capitalize on the LHC network strongly transmitting messages for world peace, and Kyoto City hopes that more member cities will participate next year.
